MOTOR ACTIVITIES	PAINTING Different types of painting can help strengthen child's hand-eye coordination and manual dexterity.	PLAYING WITH SPONGES A new, clean sponge, some water and two bowls are all you need for another activity to build fine motor skills. Fill a bowl with water and leave the other empty. Your child can soak the sponge in the water and then squeeze out the sponge into the other bowl. It's a simple game that can strengthen hands and forearms	Rice races Divide a handful of uncooked rice into two plastic bowls and have an empty bowl handy. Give your child small plastic tweezers and grab a pair for yourself. Then, have a race to see who can be the first to transfer their rice into the empty bowl	Gardening and planting Digging and gardening may seem like activities more suited to building gross motor skills but there are parts of it that requires small muscle control too	Popping Bubbles Bubbles – an ultimate child favorite – are a great and easy way to add fine motor fun to your day.

MOTOR ACTIVITIES	Ripping or Crumpling Paper Creating a mosaic craft by ripping paper into small pieces. This bimanual activity works on strengthening the small muscles of the hand.	Sticker Placement Using sticker books or simply providing our child with some stickers and paper is a great fine motor activity.	Opening and Closing Containers Helping them practice opening and closing containers is a great fine motor activity. Start with jars or containers with large, easy-to-grip lids and then gradually make it more challenging for them by using smaller containers or tighter lids.	Dot-to-Dot Coloring Providing dot-to-dot worksheets or books where they connect numbered dots to reveal hidden pictures. This activity helps them practice controlled hand movements.	Finger Painting Finger painting may seem like a messy activity, but it's actually a great way to improve fine motor skills. Kids can work on strengthening their hand muscles by pressing and spreading the paint on to the paper and exercising control with their fingers to create different designs and shapes.
